

doc-divine-aseity

Affirms · Theology Proper › Attributes · doctrine · unanimous_lineages · confidence: high

Statement under examination

God is self-existent, deriving His being from nothing outside Himself.

Rationale

Pan-canonical lexical demonstration. Hebrew הָיָה אֲשֶׁר הָיָה ehyeh asher ehyeh (Exod 3:14, the verb הָיָה hayah H1961 in the qal imperfect 1cs, self-naming as Being itself) is the foundational divine self-disclosure, and the Tetragrammaton יהוה YHWH H3068 is its derived third-person form. Greek ἐγὼ εἶμι egō eimi (John 8:58, present indicative active 1s with absolute force preceded by πρὶν Ἀβραὰμ γενέσθαι prin Abraam genesthai, 'before Abraham came to be') applies that same self-existence to Jesus. Acts 17:24-25 makes the doctrine explicit: God is not served by human hands ὡς προσδεόμενός τινος hōs prosdeomenos tinos ('as though he needed anything', προσδεομαι prosdeomai G4326, the verb of additional need negated of God). Romans 11:35-36 universalizes it: ἐξ αὐτοῦ καὶ δι' αὐτοῦ καὶ εἰς αὐτὸν τὰ πάντα ex autou kai di' autou kai eis auton ta panta ('from him and through him and to him are all things'). Psalm 50:9-12 closes the loop on the Old Testament side: God does not need food because every beast of the forest is already his. John 5:26 attributes the same self-existence to the Son: 'the Father has life in himself, and he has granted the Son also to have life in himself' (ζῶν ἐχειν ἐν ἑαυτῷ zōēn echein en heautō).

Reasoning

Verdict: God is self-existent. He exists from himself and depends on nothing outside himself for his being. The strongest reason from Scripture is the way God names himself at the burning bush in Exodus 3:14. When Moses asks for God's name, God answers 'I AM WHO I AM,' a name built on the verb 'to be.' God's name is, in effect, 'Being itself.' Acts 17:24-25 makes this explicit: 'The God who made the world and everything in it... is not served by human hands, as though he needed anything, since he himself gives to all mankind life and breath and everything.' Psalm 50:9-12 puts the point bluntly. God says, 'If I were hungry, I would not tell you, for the world and its fullness are mine.' Romans 11:35-36 closes the loop: 'Who has given a gift to him that he might be repaid? For from him and through him and to him are all things.' John applies the same self-existence to Jesus at John 8:58: 'Before Abraham was, I am.' The strongest counterargument inside the Bible is the set of passages where God seems to act in human-like ways that suggest dependence or need. Genesis 8:21 says God smelled the pleasing aroma of Noah's sacrifice, as if he were nourished by it. Genesis 2:2-3 says God rested on the seventh day, as if he were tired. Exodus 33:11 says the LORD spoke to Moses face to face, but Exodus 33:20 says no one can see God's face and live. Critics ask, if God is self-existent and needs nothing, why does the Bible picture him smelling sacrifices and resting. The verdict handles this tension by reading these texts the way the Bible itself reads them. Psalm 50:9-12 directly addresses the sacrifice question and says God does not actually eat the food of sacrifices; the aroma language is the language of God accepting worship, not God being fed. Isaiah 40:28 says explicitly that the LORD 'does not faint or grow weary,' which means the seventh-day rest in Genesis 2 is a pattern God establishes for creation, not a recovery from exhaustion. The Bible regularly speaks of God in human terms so that humans can understand him, the way a parent simplifies for a child. These passages describe how God relates to his creatures, not what God needs from them. The doctrine stands on the strongest possible footing in the canon.

Denominational landscape

Every major historic Christian lineage confesses that God is self-existent and depends on nothing outside himself. Aseity is so foundational that it is rarely listed as its own separate confessional locus; it is folded into the opening line of nearly every creed and confession under the phrase 'one living and true God' or 'eternal, almighty, and incomprehensible God.' The early fathers, including Athanasius and Augustine, taught that God alone has being from himself, while every creature has being only as God grants it. Thomas Aquinas in the Summa treats aseity, simplicity, and eternity as a cluster of necessary divine attributes flowing from God's identification with Being itself at Exodus 3:14. The Catholic Catechism teaches that God is 'He Who Is, without origin and without end.' Lutherans in the Augsburg Confession Article I confess God as eternal and of infinite power. Anglicans in the 39 Articles use the same language. The Reformed confessions, including Westminster 2.2 and Belgic 1, explicitly call God 'self-existent' or describe him as 'of himself.' Methodists in the Articles of Religion repeat the same opening formula. Anabaptists at Dordrecht confess the one eternal almighty God. Pentecostals in the Assemblies of God statement call God 'the eternally self-existent I AM,' echoing Exodus 3:14 directly. Eastern Orthodoxy teaches God as the uncreated and self-existent source of all being. Public-record carriers of denial fall outside historic Christianity. Mormonism teaches that God was once a man who progressed to godhood (the Lorenzo Snow couplet 'As man now is, God once was; as God now is, man may be'), which is a clean denial of aseity. Process theology, associated with Alfred North Whitehead, Charles Hartshorne, and John Cobb, holds that God and the world are in mutual becoming, so God's being is enriched by creation; this is also a denial of aseity. Pantheism and strict panentheism collapse God into the world or make the world a necessary part of God. Open theism, by contrast, formally affirms aseity while qualifying God's foreknowledge of free creaturely choices, so it is treated as an in-house evangelical dispute about a different attribute, not as a denial of aseity. On the bare proposition that God is self-existent, historic Christianity speaks with one voice.

Position thresholds

Would die for if challenged	Yes
Cult marker if denied	Yes
Would visit if otherwise	No
Would participate if otherwise	No
Would serve if otherwise	No
Would be member if otherwise	No
Would let children be taught otherwise	No
Would marry if held otherwise	No
Would publicly correct if otherwise	Yes

Notes

A God who depends on anything outside himself is not the God of Exod 3:14 and Acts 17:25. The verdict rests on pan-canonical lexical demonstration: ehyeh asher ehyeh inaugurates the divine name at the burning bush; Isa 44:6 ('I am the first, and I am the last; besides me there is no god') and Isa 45:5-7 carry the same self-existent monotheism through the prophets; Acts 17:24-25 and Rom 11:35-36 carry it through the apostolic preaching; John 8:58 applies it to Christ. Cult-marker-if-denied is defensible because aseity is what makes biblical monotheism biblical: a derived or dependent God is by definition not the Creator but a creature of something prior. Public-record carriers of denial: Mormonism teaches God is an exalted man (Lorenzo Snow: 'As man now is, God once was; as God now is, man may be'), which is a clean denial of aseity and is treated as outside historic Christianity. Process theism (Whitehead, Hartshorne, John Cobb) holds God and world in mutual becoming, so God's being is genuinely augmented by creation, which denies aseity and falls outside historic Christianity. Open theism (Clark Pinnock, Greg Boyd) typically still affirms aseity formally while qualifying foreknowledge, so it is an in-house evangelical dispute and not cult-marker territory. Strict pantheism / panentheism collapses God into the world. Fruit-vs-precision nuance: most believers cannot articulate aseity by name, but they confess it functionally every time they pray 'Our Father who art in heaven' rather than imagining God as a being who needs them. The cult-marker line falls sharply: full denial of aseity (Mormonism, process theism, pantheism) is outside Christianity; reduced versions that retain self-existence while disputing other attributes are in-house disputes.

Stem audit

verdict-preloaded: no

Hermeneutics

Primary method. grammatico-historical

Frameworks in play. classical_theism, open_theism, process_theology

analogia scripturae invoked

Competing lens verdicts

· affirms:

· affirms:

· denies:

Verdict rests on a pan-canonical lemma network anchored in hayah H1961 (Exod 3:14 ehyeh asher ehyeh) and its Greek echo eimi G1510 (John 8:58 egō eimi, Rev 1:8 ho ōn). The prosdeomai G4326 of Acts 17:25 is the technical lexical statement that God 'needs nothing in addition', and the prepositional cascade of Rom 11:36 (ek, dia, eis autou) closes the loop on the Pauline side. Analogia scripturae is invoked at the anthropomorphic complicating texts: the 'God smelled' of Gen 8:21 and Lev 1:9 is read against Ps 50:9-12 where God himself denies that sacrifices feed him; the 'God rested' of Gen 2:2 is read against Isa 40:28 where God 'does not faint or grow weary'. The grammatico-historical method with the accommodation principle handles both honestly. No non-default hermeneutic is required for the verdict; the canon's own self-interpretation is sufficient.

Scripture (apparatus + interlinear)

Exod.3.14 · for · genre: narrative

Key term. הָיָה אֲשֶׁר הָיָה ehyeh asher ehyeh; hayah H1961 qal imperfect 1cs

Force. hayah = to be, become, exist. Qal imperfect 1cs, doubled with the relative pronoun asher. 'I AM WHO I AM' or 'I will be what I will be'. Divine self-naming at the burning bush, ground of the Tetragrammaton YHWH H3068. God's name is built on the verb 'to be', making self-existence the very content of the name

John.8.58 · for · genre: gospel

Key term. πρὶν Ἀβραὰμ γενέσθαι ἐγὼ εἰμί; egō eimi G1473 plus G1510 present indicative active 1s; ginomai G1096 aorist middle infinitive

Force. Jesus contrasts the aorist ginomai ('came to be', a creaturely mode) of Abraham with the present absolute eimi ('I am', a divine mode of self-existence). Direct echo of Exod 3:14 LXX ego eimi ho on. The audience's response (taking up stones to kill him for blasphemy in v.59) shows they understood the claim as appropriation of the divine name

Acts.17.25 · for · genre: narrative

Key term. οὐδὲ ὑπὸ χειρῶν ἀνθρωπίνων θεραπεύεται προσδεόμενός τινος; prosdeomai G4326 present middle participle; therapeuō G2323

Force. prosdeomai = to need in addition, have further need. Negated with the present middle participle: God is not served 'as one in need of anything'. Paul on the Areopagus directly states divine aseity in lexically explicit form to a pagan audience. The verb is otherwise rare in the New Testament, used here precisely because the proposition needed to be stated technically

Acts.17.24 · for · genre: narrative

Key term. ὁ θεὸς ὁ ποιήσας τὸν κόσμον; poieō G4160 aorist active participle; kosmos G2889; kyrios G2962

Force. 'The God who made the world and everything in it, being Lord of heaven and earth, does not dwell in temples made by man.' Sets the frame for v.25. The Creator-creature distinction makes aseity necessary: the one who made everything cannot depend on anything within everything

Rom.11.36 · for · genre: epistle

Key term. ἐξ αὐτοῦ καὶ δι' αὐτοῦ καὶ εἰς αὐτὸν τὰ πάντα; ek G1537 plus dia G1223 plus eis G1519 plus autos G846 plus pas G3956

Force. Three prepositional clauses ascribing the totality of being to God as source, instrument, and goal. 'From him and through him and to him are all things'. Paul's doxology after the long argument of Romans 9 to 11. If everything is from him and to him, nothing is prior to him or external to him on which he might depend

Rom.11.35 · for · genre: epistle

Key term. τίς προέδωκεν αὐτῷ καὶ ἀνταποδοθήσεται αὐτῷ; prodidōmi G4272 aorist active indicative 3s; antapodidōmi G467 future passive 3s

Force. prodidōmi = to give first, give beforehand. 'Who has first given to him, that it might be repaid to him?' Quoting Job 41:11 LXX. Rhetorical question with the obvious answer 'no one'. Directly denies that God is in debt to any creature for anything, the precise content of aseity

Ps.50.10 · for · genre: psalm

Key term. הָלֹא־יִרְרָהּב תֹּמֶהֱב רַעֲיוֹתֶיךָ לֵי־יְיָ; kol H3605; chay H2416; behemah H929

Force. 'For every beast of the forest is mine, the cattle on a thousand hills'. God's first-person speech rejecting the idea that he eats the sacrifices. The lemma kol H3605 establishes universal divine ownership: God needs nothing from the worshipper because everything already belongs to him

Ps.50.12 · for · genre: psalm

Key term. הָאֵלֶּמוּ לִבְתִּי־לֵי־יְיָ רַמָּא־אֵל בַּעֲרָא־סָא; raab H7456; tebel H8398; melo H4393

Force. raab = to be hungry. 'If I were hungry, I would not tell you, for the world and its fullness are mine.' Divine self-speech: even the hypothetical of divine need is denied. The Psalter's clearest single statement of aseity, set in deliberate contrast to pagan religion where the gods needed feeding

John.5.26 · for · genre: gospel

Key term. ὥσπερ γὰρ ὁ πατήρ ἔχει ζωὴν ἐν ἑαυτῷ; zōē G2222; echō G2192 present active indicative 3s; en heautō

Force. 'For as the Father has life in himself, so he has granted the Son also to have life in himself.' The phrase zōēn echein en heautō ('to have life in himself') is the technical New Testament expression of aseity. Attributed first to the Father intrinsically, then granted to the Son, grounding the eternal generation of the Son's self-existent life from the self-existent Father

Isa.44.6 · for · genre: prophecy

Key term. יְהוָה יֶאְדָּר וְיֶאְחָז וְיֶאְחָז וְיֶאְחָז וְיֶאְחָז; rishon H7223; acharon H314; baladay H1107

Force. 'I am the first and I am the last; besides me there is no god.' The exclusive self-existence of YHWH. If God is the first, nothing is prior to him to which he could be indebted for his being. Concordance reinforcement of the ehyeh-Tetragrammaton lemma cluster in the prophets

Isa.40.28 · for · genre: prophecy

Key term. עָגַי אֱלֹהִים פָּעַי אֵל הוּא יִפְּלוּ; yaaph H3286; yaga H3021

Force. yaaph = to faint, be weary. yaga = to be exhausted by labor. Both negated of YHWH. 'The everlasting God, the LORD, the Creator of the ends of the earth, does not faint or grow weary.' Direct canonical answer to any anthropomorphic 'God rested' reading that would imply divine exhaustion or need

1Tim.6.16 · for · genre: epistle

Key term. ὁ μόνος ἔχων ἀθανασίαν; monos G3441; athanasia G110

Force. athanasia = deathlessness, immortality (privative alpha plus thanatos). 'Who alone has immortality, who dwells in unapproachable light, whom no one has ever seen or can see.' The adjective monos ('alone') restricts intrinsic deathlessness to God; all creaturely immortality is derived

Rev.1.8 · for · genre: apocalyptic

Key term. ὁ ὢν καὶ ὁ ἦν καὶ ὁ ἐρχόμενος ὁ παντοκράτωρ; ho ōn; pantokrator G3841

Force. ho ōn ('the one who is') is the LXX rendering of Exod 3:14 ehyeh. Used here of God in the present tense flanked by past and future, marking eternal self-existence. The same phrase is applied to Christ at Rev 22:13. Concordance reinforcement of the Exod 3:14 self-naming in apocalyptic genre

Gen.8.21 · complicates · genre: narrative · figures: anthropomorphism, anthropopathism

Key term. רָחַח חִירָתָא הוּא תְּחִינָה; ruach H7306 hiphil consecutive imperfect; reach H7381; nichoach H5207

Force. ruach hiphil = to smell, perceive odor. 'The LORD smelled the pleasing aroma'. Read literally, suggests God is nourished or pleased by the physical sacrifice in the way a hungry person is by food, which would compromise aseity. Read with Psalm 50:9-12 (God explicitly says he does not eat sacrifices because the world is already his), the smelling language is the language of accepting worship, not of being fed. Anthropomorphic complicating passage required for the verdict

Gen.2.2 · complicates · genre: narrative · figures: anthropomorphism

Key term. שָׁבַת שְׁבִיבָה מְנוּחָה; shabath H7673 qal consecutive imperfect Force. shabath = to cease, rest, desist. 'And on the seventh day God finished his work that he had done, and he rested on the seventh day from all his work that he had done.' Read literally, suggests God needed recovery, which would compromise aseity. Read with Isa 40:28 (God 'does not faint or grow weary'), shabath is the language of completion and pattern-setting, not of recovery from exhaustion.

Anthropomorphic complicating passage

Lev.1.9 · complicates · genre: law · figures: anthropomorphism, anthropopathism

Key term. להלך; olah H5930; ishshēh H801; reach H7381 nichoach H5207

Force. 'A burnt offering, an offering by fire, with a pleasing aroma to the LORD.' Recurring formula throughout Leviticus. Concordance reinforcement of the Gen 8:21 reach nichoach pattern: read literally, sacrifices are food for God, which Psalm 50:9-12 explicitly denies. The Leviticus language is liturgical-accommodative

Ps.50.9 · for · genre: psalm

Key term. לאֲקַח; laqach H3947 qal imperfect 1cs

Force. laqach = to take, receive. Negated: 'I will not accept a bull from your house'. God's own first-person commentary on the sacrificial system, denying that he receives nourishment from any offering. The canonical interpretive key for Gen 8:21 and Lev 1:9: the 'pleasing aroma' language is not divine feeding

Acts.17.28 · for · genre: narrative

Key term. ἐν αὐτῷ γὰρ ζῶμεν καὶ κινούμεθα καὶ ἐσμέν; zaō G2198; kineō G2795; eimi G1510

Force. 'In him we live and move and have our being.' Three verbs of dependent creaturely existence in the present tense, located 'in him'. The creature's existence is referred to God as its containing ground. Reverses the dependency that pagan religion presupposes: not God in the temple, but the worshipper in God

Col.1.17 · for · genre: epistle

Key term. αὐτὸς ἐστὶν πρὸ πάντων καὶ τὰ πάντα ἐν αὐτῷ συνέστηκεν; pro G4253; synistēmi G4921 perfect active indicative 3s

Force. synistēmi perfect = to hold together, cohere, consist. 'He is before all things, and in him all things hold together.' Applied to Christ. If created reality coheres in Christ rather than the reverse, then Christ shares the Father's aseity. Concordance reinforcement of John 5:26 and 8:58

Concordance lemmas traversed

H1961, H3068, H3605, H2416, H929, H7456, H8398, H4393, H7223, H314, H1107, H3286, H3021, H7306, H7381, H5207, H7673, H5930, H801, H3947, G1510, G1473, G1096, G4326, G2323, G4160, G2889, G2962, G1537, G1223, G1519, G846, G3956, G4272, G467, G2222, G2192, G3441, G110, G3841, G2198, G2795, G4253, G4921

complicating texts searched: Yes

Counter-witness traditions

patristic · Athanasius, Contra Gentes and De Decretis (CCEL NPNF Series 2 Vol 4); Augustine, Confessions XIII and De Trinitate V; Aquinas, Summa Theologica I Q.3 A.4 'Whether essence and existence are the same in God' (CCEL) · affirms · verified

"Aquinas: in God essence is identical with existence, so God exists necessarily and a se. Athanasius and Augustine teach God alone has being from himself; every creature has being only as God grants it"

catholic_magisterial · Catechism of the Catholic Church paragraphs 212 to 213 on the divine name 'I AM WHO AM' (vatican.va) · affirms · unverified

"CCC 213: 'The revelation of the ineffable name I AM WHO AM contains then the truth that God alone IS. God is the fullness of Being and of every perfection, without origin and without end.' Aseity explicitly tied to Exod 3:14"

lutheran · Augsburg Confession Article I, Of God (bookofconcord.org); Formula of Concord Solid Declaration · affirms · verified

“Augsburg I: 'One Divine Essence, eternal, without body, without parts, of infinite power, wisdom, and goodness, the Maker and Preserver of all things.' Eternity and Creator-status entail aseity in the Lutheran confessional grammar” anglican · 39 Articles, Article I, Of Faith in the Holy Trinity (churchofengland.org) · affirms · unverified

“There is but one living and true God, everlasting, without body, parts, or passions; of infinite power, wisdom, and goodness; the Maker and Preserver of all things.' Anglican confession of the self-existent eternal God”

reformed · Westminster Confession of Faith 2.2; Belgic Confession Article 1 · affirms · unverified “WCF 2.2: 'God hath all life, glory, goodness, blessedness, in and of himself; and is alone in and unto himself all-sufficient.' Belgic 1 confesses one simple and spiritual Being, eternal, incomprehensible, almighty” methodist · United Methodist Articles of Religion, Article I, Of Faith in the Holy Trinity (umc.org) · affirms · verified

“There is but one living and true God, everlasting, without body or parts, of infinite power, wisdom, and goodness; the maker and preserver of all things.' Methodist confession of the eternal self-existent God”

anabaptist · Dordrecht Confession of Faith 1632, Article 1, Of God and the Creation of All Things · affirms · unverified

“We believe in one eternal, almighty, and incomprehensible God, the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost.' Eternity entails aseity; the Anabaptist tradition confesses divine self-existence with the historic church” pentecostal · Assemblies of God Statement of Fundamental Truths, Truth 2, The One True God (ag.org) · affirms · unverified

“The one true God has revealed Himself as the eternally self-existent I AM, the Creator of heaven and earth and the Redeemer of mankind.' Pentecostal confession of aseity by direct reference to Exod 3:14”

eastern_orthodox · OCA, The Orthodox Faith, on God the Father (oca.org) · affirms · verified

“Orthodoxy teaches God as the uncreated, self-existent, eternal source of all being. 'God may certainly be said to exist perfectly and absolutely.' Aseity is presupposed in the Cappadocian doctrine of the Father as arche (source) of the Trinity”

Web sources

supports · category: interlinear · <https://biblehub.com/interlinear/exodus/3-14.htm>

“Exod 3:14 ehyeh asher ehyeh, hayah H1961 qal imperfect 1cs doubled with relative pronoun. 'I AM WHO I AM'. Divine self-naming at the burning bush, ground of the Tetragrammaton”

supports · category: interlinear · <https://biblehub.com/interlinear/john/8-58.htm>

“John 8:58 prin Abraam genesthai egō eimi. ginomai aorist middle infinitive of Abraham contrasted with eimi present indicative active 1s of Jesus. Direct echo of Exod 3:14 LXX” supports · category: interlinear · <https://biblehub.com/interlinear/acts/17-25.htm>

“Acts 17:25 prosdeomai G4326 present middle participle negated: God is not served 'as one in need of additional thing'. Technical lexical statement of aseity by Paul on the Areopagus” supports · category: interlinear · <https://biblehub.com/interlinear/romans/11-36.htm>

“Rom 11:36 ex autou kai di' autou kai eis auton ta panta. Triple prepositional cascade: God as source, instrument, and goal of all that is. No prior to whom he could be indebted”

supports · category: interlinear · <https://biblehub.com/interlinear/psalms/50-12.htm>

“Ps 50:12 raab H7456 'if I were hungry'. Divine first-person denial that God needs to be fed: 'for the world and its fullness are mine'. Direct canonical statement of aseity”

supports · category: interlinear · <https://biblehub.com/interlinear/john/5-26.htm>

“John 5:26 zōēn echein en heautō ('to have life in himself'). Technical NT expression of aseity, first of the Father, then granted to the Son. Ground of the doctrine of eternal generation” supports · category: interlinear · <https://biblehub.com/strongs/hebrew/1961.htm>

“hayah H1961, the verb of being. Used in the qal imperfect 1cs at Exod 3:14 as the divine self-name. Foundational for the lexical claim of aseity”

supports · category: interlinear · <https://biblehub.com/strongs/greek/4326.htm>

“prosdeomai G4326, 'to need in addition, have further need'. Used at Acts 17:25 negated of God. The verb of additional need denied of the Creator”

complicates · category: interlinear · <https://biblehub.com/interlinear/genesis/8-21.htm>

“Gen 8:21 ruach H7306 hiphil 'smelled' plus reach H7381 nichoach H5207 'pleasing aroma'. Anthropomorphic complicating text; resolved by Ps 50:9-12 where God says he does not eat sacrifices”

complicates · category: interlinear · <https://biblehub.com/interlinear/genesis/2-2.htm>

“Gen 2:2 shabath H7673 'rested'. Anthropomorphic complicating text; resolved by Isa 40:28 where God 'does not faint or grow weary'. Pattern-setting, not recovery”

supports · category: patristic_archive · https://ccel.org/ccel/aquinas/summa/summa.FP_Q3_A4.html

“Aquinas Summa I Q.3 A.4: 'In God essence and existence are the same.' Therefore God exists of himself necessarily. Locus classicus for aseity in the Thomistic tradition” supports · category: magisterial · https://www.vatican.va/archive/ENG0015/___P15.HTM

“CCC 213: 'The revelation of the ineffable name I AM WHO AM contains then the truth that God alone IS. God is the fullness of Being and of every perfection, without origin and without end” supports · category: tradition_primary · <https://bookofconcord.org/augsburg-confession/>

“Augsburg Confession Article I: 'One Divine Essence, eternal, without body, without parts, of infinite power, wisdom, and goodness, the Maker and Preserver of all things” supports · category: tradition_primary · <https://ag.org/Beliefs/Statement-of-Fundamental-Truths>

“AG Statement of Fundamental Truths 2: 'The one true God has revealed Himself as the eternally self-existent I AM, the Creator of heaven and earth.' Direct reference to Exod 3:14” supports · category: tradition_primary · <https://www.oca.org/orthodoxy/the-orthodox-faith/doctrine-scripture/the-symbol-of-faith/god>

“OCA: God is the uncreated and self-existent source of all being. Aseity is presupposed in the Cappadocian doctrine of the Father as arche (source) of the Trinity”